Maysville Enterprise's Increased Business Demands More Room

Since coming to Maysville and taking charge of the Maysville Foundry and Machine Works A. M. Danbery has converted an old rattle-trap affair into a large and first class establishment.

Under his management the place has grown to three times its original dimensions, new buildings and improved machinery have taken the place of the obsolete and crude ones, until now there is not a class of work in their line that cannot be done right here just as well as at Cincinnati, and at lower prices.

The increased business has called for increased capital, and in order to meet requirements Mr. Danbery has disposed of a two-thirds interest to Mr. L. T. Anderson, the stockman, who will have associated with him his brother-in-law, Mr. Gasner, who is Superintendent of a railroad at Burnside.

This will in no way interfere with the horse business. Mr. Anderson will still conduct Point au View Stock Farm even on a larger scale.

The concern will be incorporated and capitalized at $50,000 or more.

It is the intention of the company to build an addition for steamboat work, where all classes of work in that connection will be promptly attended to.

In fact, it is the intention to build a plant that will exceed anything of the kind between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

With three such live hustlers as now compose the firm the increased business will necessitate the employment of double the number of hands, which all redounds to the betterment of Old Maysville.

Let us all pull for the new concern.

Bracken Physicians Engage in Serious Fight at Neave

At Neave, in the interior of Bracken county, Friday, occurred a bloody street fight between Dr. Edward Courtney and Dr. John Carney, two young physicians.

Carney was shot six times and lived only half an hour after receiving his wounds.

The two physicians were former partners in the practice of medicines, but about one year ago had trouble between themselves, since which time they have been rivals as well as bitter enemies.

Dr. Courtney is a married man, while Dr. Carney was single. They were both members of the same Knights of Pythias Lodge and were prominent young men.

Dr. Courtney surrendered to the authorities immediately after the shooting.

The trouble between the combatants was not unexpected, as friends have upon several occasions interfered and kept them apart.

Should the bill introduced in Congress by Representative W. P. Brownlow of Tennessee for Southern legislation become a law, Judge A. M. J. Cochran will have jurisdiction in all election cases brought into his Federal Court.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. ## Political Pickings

KENTUCKY CONGRESSIONAL SEATS.

Louisville Herald.

The decision of Mr. Kehoe of the Ninth and Mr. Jones of the Third District not to contest the Congressional elections in their respective Districts, by which each was defeated by a small plurality, shows the existence of good spirit, although it must be confessed that Mr. Kehoe is a little ungracious in the expression of his opinion. "There has been so much criticism of Democratic election methods in Kentucky," he declares, "that the Judges bent over backward this time in order to be fair." Mr. Jones, on the other hand, declared to his Campaign Committee that if his opponent had one vote the better of the struggle he did not want to contest—he sought only right and justice.

The settlement of these determinations leaves the Republicans with a gain of one Congressional District in Kentucky, and sends, in the person of the Hon. J. B. Bennett of Greenup, a fine addition to the Lower House of Congress. He is the sort of man who will benefit by service and who will make an excellent Congressman. Not an orator, he is an eminently industrious worker—as, indeed, Mr. Kehoe has been—and he will commend himself to the best elements of the House.

Indeed, the Ninth District has been well represented in Mr. Kehoe, whose defeat was brought about by party schism as much as by the popularity of Mr. Bennett. Mr. Kehoe himself is popular, and deservedly so. The very large majority he maintained in Mason county, where he has been known as one of the most public-spirited citizens of Maysville, demonstrates that. The normal Democratic majority there is from 250 to 400. Mr. Kehoe carried it by over a thousand. But the bitter antagonism that sprang up between Mr. Kehoe and the Beckham machine last summer bore its fruit in some of the counties where he was cut. How this will react in the coming Senatorial struggle remains to be seen. Machine influence having lost the Ninth District, there will be bills to pay when Assembly elections are held next year.

This much is true, that Mr. Kehoe was an alert and creditable Congressman. He has served two terms, and now, like most men who are victims of the "rotation in office" theory or of political feud, he must pick up his law practice again, with the prospect that four years of his life are lost. It will be better for the South and for Kentucky when both parties seek to keep capable Congressmen in their seats, so that experience may add to their value. The North does this, and is better represented as a result. If a Democrat must represent the Ninth District, Mr. Kehoe is a good man. Meanwhile the Ninth District will be better served by Mr. Bennett, who is in accord with the spirit of the whole country.

The collection of the Hon. J. M. Richardson to the seat of the Hon. John S. Rhea has the effect of causing the Third District representation which will be the first opportunity. Will the man to do the trick

FINE COASTING

The Snow Brings Gladness to the Heart of the Small Boy

Saturday night boys coasting down Sutton street fill ran into a passing team, frightening the horses, which ran away.

Early in the day the sedate and dignified Judge George W. Adair had his trotters knocked from under him and he came down with a thump.

Sunday afternoon and night the scene shifted to Market street where the sport was continued until a late hour.

Here also the coasters made narrow escapes in colliding with the streetcars.

Young America is not to be denied the sport, however, even though an occasional leg, arm or neck is broken.

The sport is fine, and you've all been there in one period of your life.

The day being Sunday prevented such old-timers as Kinny McClanahan and Alec Calhoun being on their "Long Tom."

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Of Barge of Nitro-Glycerine on Ohio River Saturday Afternoon

For a few moments Saturday afternoon the people of Ashland thought their earthly existence was about at an end. The shock came at 12:50 o'clock. The earth trembled like an aspen leaf. The doors of houses flew open and the glass in windows crumbled into tiny fragments. In a short while after the shock passed away rumors were rife to the effect that the big powder mill at Kellogg, W. Va., had blown up, but soon the news reached there that the awful earthquake-like catastrophe was the result of the unaccountable explosion of a barge-load of nitro-glycerine, which had occurred in the Ohio river almost opposite Clyffside Park, two miles above that city.

How the 2,200 quarts of the powerful explosive was ignited will never be known, for the three men who were then in charge of the cargo, James Brown of Cleveland, O., Frank McGugin and John Coughlin of Parkersburg, W. Va., were blown to atoms.

The life of the fourth man in the crew, Henry Brown of Cleveland, O., was saved by his landing at Catlettsburg at noon to get a check cashed and secure provisions. He was to meet the dangerous flotilla at Ashland.

The nitro-glycerine was loaded on a barge, which was managed by four of the most expert explosive handlers in the country. The men rowed in two shifts. The shipment was from North Pole, W. Va., the only place along the river where this most powerful and dangerous of explosives is manufactured, and consigned to Prenger & Langley, the well-known oil contractors of this place.

Probably the nearest persons to the accident, besides the men who lost their lives, were passengers on a Camden Interstate System street car which was passing a half mile away when the explosion occurred. The trolley pole was knocked from the wire by the force of the explosion and the glass in the windows smashed to bits. Passengers on the car gave a most vivid description of the awful affair. They say an immense volume of water with logs and other debris shot up into the air over 200 feet high, the fragments shooting like arrows in every direction.

Small boys found pieces of human flesh scattered about the river bank, and one good-sized portion of a human leg was found. This was all that could be discovered of the men. Not a piece of window glass was left in the houses within a mile of the explosion, and many windows were wrecked in Catlettsburg and at all points between there and Ashland.

Not less than twenty glasses were broken in the windows of the Hotel Ventura at Ashland, and information from up the river is that the shock was plainly felt at all points, even as far as Huntington.

THE OLD AND NEW WAY

Some Important Facts Which May Prove Helpful.

Thirty years ago old-fashioned cod liver oil had to be forced down a patient's throat. Invalids couldn't take it and children wouldn't. But the doctors prescribed it, and it had to be taken by force. Yet it cured people where enough could be taken into the system, for it has ever been the greatest of all tissue builders and general reconstructors known to medicine. We are now anxious to have every one know that Vinol is a new form of this very old and valuable remedy, cod liver oil. It contains concentrated form all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cod livers, but by a new process it is made without oil or grease, and it is as delicious to the taste as a fresh orange.

Vinol does not upset the stomach like old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions; it strengthens and healing properties are remarkable, and both doctors and patients are delighted with its action.

Many wonderful cures right here in Maysville have been effected by its use, and we ask all of our customers to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money every time it fails to make rich, red blood, increase the appetite, cure stomach troubles, give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, run down, tired and debilitated, or cure chronic colds, hacking coughs or bronchitis. JOHN C. PECOR, Druggist.

MRS. MICHAEL BURKE.

Mrs. Michael Burke died at her home near Mayslick Friday at noon of a complication of diseases.

She is survived by her husband and four children—Mrs. John Tamme of Paris, Ed. of Hamilton, O., and Miss Nellie and James of Mayslick.

The funeral took place yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Rose of Lima Church, Mayslick, the interment following at Washington.

THE BUTLERS.

The Butlers have a National reputation and are people of the highest moral and literary attainment, whom to meet and to know is a real pleasure. The spectacle to be presented at the Washington Opera-house this week was never witnessed in Maysville before. All of the tests and experiments, especially the comical ones, performed by the Butlers, are the very embodiment of refinement and fun and are done with gorgeous costumes and electrical calcium effects. Mrs. Butler, the charming little lady, who gives the fun, part of the program, is a gifted woman, tempered with a sense of humor without admitting.

THE LEDGER.

The Rev. T. D. Witt Talmage says—

"A newspaper whose columns overflow with the advertisements of business men has more influence in attracting attention to and building up a city or town than any other agency that can be employed. People go where there is business. Capital and labor will locate where there is an enterprising community. No power on earth is so strong to build up a town as newspapers well patronized, and this power should be appreciated."
